Dear Parents / Guardians

NMPAT have been running endangered instrument clubs (formally known as exotic instrument clubs) for several years and we are pleased to be able to continue to offer group lessons on selected instruments at a subsidised cost again this year.

Students have the opportunity to learn a brand new instrument - oboe, bassoon or double bass – for just £30 per term. For the first year, students will have group lessons (up to 6 students per 30 minutes) at NMPAT, Kettering Road, Northampton and instrument loan is included in the cost.

Following their first year of learning, NMPAT offer a wide range of progression opportunities including individual lessons, Saturday Centres and auditions for County Group membership. Learning an endangered instrument allows students to develop their team work and ensemble skills, as well as dedication and commitment.

We have attached a flyer, which includes a link to the NMPAT website where parents can find further information and register using the online form.

Kind regards
